WEST FINED IN FEDERAL COURT

Rush County Man Gets $10 and Costs
For Sending Obscene Matter
Through Mails.

THE LETTER WAS MAILED HERE

Last Summer to a Woman in Tennessee Who Returned it to Local Postoffice.

Raymond West of near Arlington was arraigned in the Federal court before Judge Anderson, yesterday, in Indianapolis, on a charge of sending obscene matter through the mail. He was fined ten dollars and costs after he entered a plea of guilty.

West formerly lived on rural route seven, a short distance west of this city, when he sent the letter which caused him to be fined. West wrote a letter to a woman in Tennessee one day last summer which was of such a nature that it would not bear the light of day. The epistle evidently did not suit the woman as it reached its destination and was returned to the local office with the request that West be arrested for the offense.

The letter was placed in the hands of Postmaster Charles Frazer, who put the matter in the hands of the federal authorities. They were here last Saturday and arrested West who gave bond and appeared before the court yesterday. West's brother, hearing that he was to be sent to prison, walked all the way to Indianapolis to see him, only to learn when he got there that his brother was let down with a small fine.

The Indianapolis Star says of the episode:

Believing that his brother was about to be sent away to remain several years and desiring to see him before his departure, a brother of Raymond West, who pleaded guilty before Judge Anderson yesterday to a violation of the postal laws by sending objectionable matter through the mails, journeyed twenty-two miles on foot Monday night. He made the trip from his home on a farm a few miles from Arlington, Ind., having missed the last interurban car.

West pleaded guilty to the charge and was fined $10 and costs. His brother understood the case was to come up during the day, but he was under the impression that West would be sent to the penitentiary. The brother was released on bond at the time of his arrest and when it was learned that he would not have to go to the penitentiary both left the court room much elated.

BEGIN TENTH YEAR'S WORK

Just nine years ago today free city delivery began here. And the three original carriers, H. H. Allen, Howard Carmichael and J. P. Stech, were on duty today. The routes have changed some and the three carriers began their tenth year's service for Uncle Sam with an increased business and incidentally a better salary.

JESSE HARLOW NEXT MARSHAL?

Rumor on Streets Can Not be Verified as Mayor-Elect Black is Away.

STATEMENT BY MR. HARLOW

Is Jesse Harlow to be the next marshal of the city? That report was current on the streets today and it seemingly has some foundation. Mayor-elect Black was out of the city and could not be reached to verify the report.

Mr. Harlow was seen, but he could not verify the report either.

"I have been congratulated several times today, but I have not yet received official notice of my appointment," said Mr. Harlow. "I have been expecting something of this kind, but today is the first time I have heard it. If I am appointed I will try to do the best I can."

Mr. Harlow made the race for council in the First ward and was beaten by a small majority. He is now employed at the Kramer meat market, and was formerly in business here for himself in North Main street. He has the confidence of the business men and it is believed his appointment would meet their approval.

J. T. McBride has often been mentioned for the place and mayor-elect Black's confirmation or denial of the report today will be awaited with much interest.

BIG HEARTED MAN SENDS $5

His Contribution to Republican Santa Claus Fund Will be Big Help in Work.

OTHERS ARE ALSO RECEIVED

First List of Contributors to be Published Friday and Prospects Are Bright.

WELCOME!

Republican Santa Claus Fund:
Enclosed find check for $5 for your fund. Success to it.

The above letter was received today by the Republican Santa Claus fund and in it was a check for $5. To say that it shows the right spirit and that it is greatly appreciated does not even begin to express the real feeling toward the contribution. Think what $5 will do toward making Christmas a happy one for the unfortunate children of Rushville!

The man who sent the letter is a big hearted man who is ever ready to help out on worthy movements. His name will be announced Friday when the first of donations is published. This is a good example of the good the Republican fund can accomplish—that man was willing to spend $5 for the happiness of others but he probably could not have spent it himself to accomplish the good it will in the fund being raised for Santa Claus. The Republican is fortunate in getting women to take charge of the work who know what they are doing and can place the presents where they are most needed and will be most appreciated.

That is not the only contribution which has been received either and there is every reason to feel encouraged over the prospects for an unlimited success in this work. The contributions will be announced in the order they are received at this office. Anything from ten cents up to $100 will be appreciated and will do its share in the good work.

WHITE BOXES ARE GETTING MONEY

Pennies and Nickels Dropping in For Santa Claus Fund at Lively" Rate.

TRY THE PENNY A DAY PLAN

Did you see the white boxes? If you have been down town you have and you know what they are for. The idea is to get the pennies or nickels or dimes for the Santa Claus fund. Already the money has been dropping into the boxes at a "lively" rate. This plan to boost the fund for the children was devised by M. H. Lively, who is employed at the Daily Republican office. He made the boxes and all the arrangements for taking care of them. They will be opened by Mayor Cowing on December 21 and the money added to the Republican Santa Claus fund. Adopt this plan at once—drop one penny in each day. It will cost you twenty cents and you can readily have some idea how much good will be accomplished by this money.

Was the Charity ball a success? If anybody can read the report, which has been submitted by the managers, forward, backward or upside down and then have even a suspicion that the Charity ball was not a success he belongs in the Smithsonian institution in Washington, D. C. for he surely is a wonder. Think of it—$255.50 clear money on that ball. That will go a long way toward alleviating the suffering of the unfortunate ones in this city and making life more pleasant for them during the coming year.

Yes, the Charity ball was a success in every conceivable way. The floor was in good shape and the dancers appreciated that.

But best of all, here come the managers along with the financial statement, which shows that the fondest hopes of even the enthusiastic ones were surpassed. Those who managed the affair are to be congratulated on their work, and those who assisted in selling the tickets should also come in for their share of the glory.

MARRIED BEFORE UNINVITED GUESTS

Mrs. Minerva Jones and John Gartin
Wedded at Home of Omer Gartin Sunday.

WANTED IT KEPT A SECRET

Mrs. Minerva Adeline Jones of Perkins street and John Gartin were married at the home of the bridegroom's son, Omer Gartin, north of the city, Sunday evening, by the Rev. Hawthorne. The marriage license was procured late Saturday evening with the request that the license not be published. The couple wished to keep their marriage secret until Mr. Gartin could get possession of his property here in this city, which will not be possible until the latter part of this month. They went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Omer Gartin Sunday evening expecting to be married there, so that no one would know it. Imagine their surprise when they entered the Gartin home to find the house full of Sunday evening callers. They were married anyway before the uninvited wedding guests and returned to this city. Mrs. Gartin is the mother of Dr. George B. Jones, who is army physician at Fort Benjamin Harrison. Mr. Gartin is a wealthy retired farmer.

WEDS BESIDE FATHER'S BODY

Miss Juanita Howard, Well Known
Here, Fulfills Request of Her Dead Relative.

SHE HAS VISITED HERE OFTEN

James Howard, Who Died From Injuries, Was Grandfather of Mrs. Tom J. Geraghty.

James Howard, the grandfather of Mrs. Tom J. Geraghty, who recently moved to New York City, made the unusual request that his daughter be married in his presence, but he died at his home in Chicago Monday before his request could be granted. He was fatally injured in an automobile accident last week.

Miss Juanita Howard was married only a few hours after her father's death before the open casket. Miss Howard has visited here several times and has many friends here. She has been the guest of Mrs. Geraghty on several occasions and has also visited other relatives here.

A dispatch from Chicago says of the incident:

Beside the body of her father, James Howard, formerly secretary of the Washington Park club and one of the best known horsemen of the country, Miss Juanita C. Howard was married today to Irving Herriott.

The last wish of Mr. Howard who was fatally injured by an automobile last week, was that his daughter should be married in his presence. Howard died before the license could be procured.

Miss Howard and her affianced husband stood beside the open casket and were married by the Rev. J. W. Nicely, who later officiated at the funeral.

SOLD $7000 WORTH OF TROLLEY WIRE

I. & C. Made Change From Direct to Alternate Current and Disposed of Old Cable.

WAS SHIPPED TO INDIANAPOLIS

The Indianapolis & Cincinnati traction company shipped $7000 worth of trolley wire to Indianapolis today, which they sold to a firm there. The company has made a change and the cars are being run now on alternate current instead of direct which has been used up until this time. The wire used for the direct current could not be used for the alternate current and for that reason it was taken down and sold. The wire used to carry the alternate current has already been installed. The wire sold for fifteen cents a pound and cost 22½ cents a pound when it was new.

GANG OF CATTLE THIEVES ABROAD?

George W. Williams, Living Near Laurel is Latest to Suffer at Their Hands.

OTHER THEFTS ARE REPORTED

Which Leads Farmers to Believe That an Organized Gang is Raiding the Pastures.

Is there an organized gang of cattle rustlers abroad in this part of Indiana? It is a question which is bothering the farmers considerably just now. Some time ago farmers living in Decatur county, just south of the Rush county line, missed stock. Luther Hamilton, living near Buena Vista, has just recovered some stock which had been stolen, and now George W. Williams, living near Laurel is minus about nine head of cattle.

The Connersville News says in speaking of this latest haul:

George W. Williams, a well-to-do farmer, living about a mile south of Laurel, was in the city Tuesday, very much disturbed about what looks like the theft of nine head of cattle from his pasture some time during the past week.

The pasture from which the cattle were taken is about two miles east of Laurel. It is supplied with running water, and so the cattle needed but little care. Mr. Williams was in the habit of going to the pasture each Saturday, but missed going last Saturday. The cattle were last seen in the pasture by others a week ago Tuesday, but Mr. Williams did not miss them until Monday, when he drove out to see how they were getting along. The ground showed no tracks that seemed to have been made within the last few days so that if stolen, the thief or thieves had ample time to get away. The fence was closely examined, but showed no breaks. One gate, opening on a public road had evidently been opened and closed again, but not pushed entirely against the post.

The cattle consisted of three cows with spring calves, all of which were still suckling, although one of the calves, Mr. Williams says, would weigh at least 350 pounds. The others consisted of a bull, a black and a red heifer. The calves and two heifers were in good condition, but the cows were thin in flesh. Mr. Williams is much troubled about his loss and does not know just how to proceed to trace the cattle. He sent a man to Metamora and Brookville Tuesday and came here himself. The cattle may have been driven through to Cincinnati and there sold.

In making inquiries, Mr. Williams says he has received hints that more cattle have been stolen hereabouts, notably near Glenwood and also in Decatur county.

GOOD NEWS.

The Daily Republican today prints on page 4 some interesting facts about what other cities are doing. A rather remarkable coincidence is that the announcement of a new factory for New Castle, a story of the progress of a large factory for Richmond, and some good industrial news from Connersville was published all on the same day. Parts of these accounts are re-published in the belief that they will be of interest to Rushville readers.

JOHN D. GAVE AN ATTENTIVE EAR

Oil King Flees From Plot to Kill Or Kidnap.

WORD CAME FROM ALLIANCE

Evil Plotters Were Overheard Planning the Destruction of the Richest Man in the World, and the Man Who Heard Them Carried the News to Cleveland With the Result That Mr. Rockefeller Immediately Sought His Stronghold in the Pocantico Hills—The Credibility of the Evidence of a Plot Was Not Doubted and Rockefeller Guards Are on the Alert.

Cleveland, O., Dec. 1.—John D. Rockefeller departed for New York and Pocantico Hills last evening, his action hastened by a revelation to him of the overhearing of a plot to kidnap or kill. The departure was surrounded with all the safeguards possible and the Rockefeller auto was kept going all the time the party, which included only Mr. and Mrs. Rockefeller and the Rockefeller secretary, awaited the arrival of the train, that no one might approach the oil king. He descended from the machine for perhaps two minutes on the arrival of the motor car at the station, and while his secretary was learning in the station of the minute at which the train might be expected. When the train arrived the motor car dashed up to the platform and the Standard Oil head hopped across the flagging and boarded the car, waiting only to assist Mrs. Rockefeller up the steps.

Harold Smith, a lumber mill operator of good family and moderate wealth, whose home is near Minerva, O., a Stark county village, was the man who brought about the hasty departure of the Rockefellers. His story frowned on for a moment as the product of a disordered imagination, quickly earned respect when investigation proved Mr. Smith's responsibility and John D. Rockefeller's tender of money, not as a reward, but as a just payment of Mr. Smith's expenses in bringing warning to this city to the neglect of his business, was rejected.

Mr. Smith, visiting in Alliance Sunday, overheard the plot which he told the Canton police, then the police of Cleveland and of East Cleveland, and finally Mr. Rockefeller himself. He described the two men whose words he overheard, and police messages to all cities in the middle west and east have spread the description in an effort to frustrate the plot, which Mr. Smith declares includes kidnapping and assassination, if the first aim fails. Mr. Smith's own story is as follows:

"I was visiting in Alliance Sunday. About 8:35 that night I started for the church to meet my brother. I walked up a railroad track near the church and stopped when I heard someone talking in a dark shed. One voice said: 'I don't see why we came here from Pittsburgh. We might have waited until tomorrow and gone to Canton to meet Bill. We might as well get our money for killing old John D. We will get what is coming to us whether we kill him or kidnap him. Bill and the other fellow have plenty of money and are willing to pay well for putting old Rockefeller out of the way.' I sneaked around to head the fellows off and get a good look at them. I stumbled as I was going away because it was dark. They saw me, but I hurried along and headed them off around the next block. I got a good look at both of them. They recognized me and remarked that they had seen me before, but I hurried along and paid no attention."

A STORM OF PROTEST

Is Said to Be About to Descend on the White House.

Washington, Dec. 1.—President Taft has adopted another one of the Roosevelt policies. In its enforcement he goes a step further than his predecessor. He has issued an order prohibiting any bureau officer or division chief or any officer of the army or navy or the marine corps stationed in Washington from divulging official information to any committee of the house or senate, or any member of congress except as authorized by the head of the department in which such officials serve. Those senators and representatives who have read the text of the order are up in arms over it, saying that it abridges rights and privileges that members of congress have had conceded for fifty years or more. They predict that when the full membership of congress becomes familiar with the order and fully realizes its import, through refusal by department officials to extend to them the privilege of examining records and obtaining information to which they have had access for years, a storm of protest will descend on the White House strongly reminiscent of congressional war dances provoked during the administration of Theodore Roosevelt.

CHILD LABOR LAW

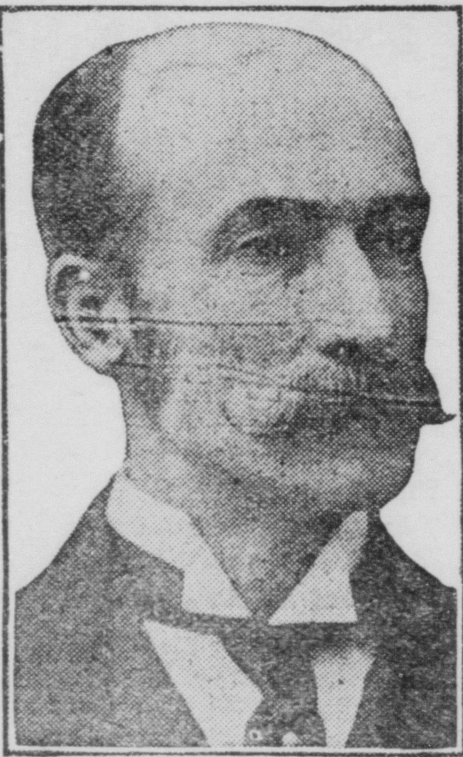

Was Apparently Not Strictly Regarded in Doomed Mine at Cherry.

Cherry, Ill., Dec. 1.—Evidence of violations of the child labor law in the cases of three boys who died in the recent mine disaster has been placed in the hands of Coroner Malm by a report of Factory Inspector Edgar T. Davis. The boys are Alfred Howard, Joseph Leondeck and Alfred Kroll. It is reported that the factory inspector has other evidence concerning boys who did not die in the mine, which he will place in the hands of the state's attorney.

HOUSE OF LORDS AVERTS CRISIS

Finance Bill Will Be Returned to the People.

London, Dec. 1.—An unprecedented step was taken under unprecedented circumstances last night when the house of lords cast out the house of commons's annual appropriation bill and a large section of the British public is now wondering whether the present form of government will survive the shock. The division was on the amendment of Lord Lansdowne to the finance bill, which in effect declares that the lords should not vote on the measure until the country has an opportunity to vote on it. The amendment was adopted by a vote of 350 to 75.

The debate maintained its dignity and high plane of statesmanship until the end, which came in a scene which will be forever regarded as historic by the English people. The magnificent chamber was crowded in every part. Not since 1893 had so many members of the house been assembled. Scores of peeresses, many in evening dress and blazing with jewels, and many distinguished foreigners filled the galleries. Hundreds of members of the house of commons exercised their privilege of standing on the steps of the throne. There were, however, no dramatic features. The division simply caused twenty minutes of rather dreary waiting, the delay being caused by the fact that most of the peers desired to pass through the negative lobby, and many of them were not familiar even with that simple process. There was a brief Unionist cheer when the lord chancellor read the fateful figures from a bit of paper.

The result had been a foregone conclusion for weeks past. Now the country looks eagerly for the consequences which may limit themselves to the result of a general election a few weeks hence, or, as most ministerialists assert, will gather force until the upper house is swept out of existence in the near future. The present government has deliberately forced the present issue. The budget, which is now dead, contained exactly that which the house of lords had rejected with unquestioned right in previous bills. To have approved these measures when incorporated with the finance bill would be in effect for the house of lords to resign all legislative functions. This clear question unfortunately cannot go before the country at the pending election. It is only one of the issues to be decided.

TO REBUKE GRANT

State Department Thinks the General Talks Too Much.

Chicago, Nov. 30.—A report from Washington that Major General Frederick D. Grant may be rebuked by the state department for utterances in connection with the attitude of the United States toward Nicaragua, is agitating military and political circles.

It is said the commander of the department of the lakes may expect an official communication from the capital this week. General Grant admits the authenticity of a newspaper interview in which he expressed the conviction that, should it be shown that Leroy Cannon and Leonard Groce were allied with the revolutionists seeking to overthrow the Zelaya government, the United States will have no valid claim for indemnity. He denied, however, that his expression was an official one, saying that it was only his personal opinion and was given for what it might be worth.

It is said the authorities at Washington feel that General Grant has been indiscreet and assert that, in the present instance, he spoke without knowledge of the facts.

When his attention was called to the Washington dispatches General Grant was disposed to treat the matter lightly. He said that he was not at all concerned and had no fear of an official and it is the only medicine for woman's peculiar ailments, sold by druggists, the makers of which feel fully warranted in thus taking the afflicted into their full confidence

The more known about the composition of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription the more confidently will invalid women rely upon it to cure their peculiar weaknesses and derangements. There's no secrecy about its make-up—no deceptive inducements held out to the afflicted. It's simply a good, honest, square-deal medicine with no alcohol, or injurious, habit-forming drugs in its composition. Made wholly from roots. It can do no harm in any condition of woman's organism.

Devised and put up by a physician of vast experience in the treatment of woman's maladies. Its ingredients have the indorsement of leading physicians in all schools of practice.

The "Favorite Prescription" is known everywhere as the standard remedy for diseases of women and has been so regarded for the past 40 years and more. Accept no secret nostrum in place of "Favorite Prescription"—a medicine OF KNOWN COMPOSITION, with a record of 40 years of cures behind it.

It's foolish and often dangerous to experiment with new or but slightly tested medicines—sometimes urged upon the afflicted as "just as good" or better than "Favorite Prescription." The dishonest dealer sometimes insists that he knows what the proffered substitute is made of, but you don't and it is decidedly for your interest that you should know what you are taking into your stomach and system expecting it to act as a curative. To him its only a difference of profit. Therefore, insist on having Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

Cindy's Logic.

Cindy was an old black southern "mammy," with all the lovable traits and inconsistencies of her kind. For many years she was cook in the Warren family and gave faithful and satisfactory service.

One summer the entire family were away for two months, and Mr. Warren gave Cindy a real vacation by paying her full wages for that time and giving her the keys to the well stocked storeroom.

A few days after the return of the family Cindy came bustling into Mrs. Warren's sitting room.

"I wants mo' wages," she announced. "Why, Cindy," exclaimed the surprised mistress, "you are getting better pay than any cook I know of in a family the size of ours. You have a nice, comfortable room and good treatment. Think how kind it was of Mr. Warren to give you a long vacation with your full wages."

"Dat's it," grumbled Cindy. "Mr. Warren paid me dat money fur doin' nuthin'. An' now all you folks is come back fur me to cook fur an' wait on. An' I gits more money or I leaves."—Lippincott's.

A Costly Client.

Miss Bayley told me that Mr. Phipps the oculist, told a gentleman, who told her, the following anecdote of the late Duchess of Devonshire: Mr. Phipps was sent for to Chatsworth to operate upon the duchess' eye. He stayed there some time and at parting received from the duke a fee of £1,000. Just before he stepped into his carriage a message from the duchess brought him to her chamber. She hoped the duke had done what was handsome by Mr. Phipps. The gentleman protested:

"Yes, and more than handsome."

"It is an awful thing," continued her grace, "to ask, but really I am at this moment in immediate want of such a sum, and if you could, Mr. Phipps."

What could the oculist do? He produced his £1,000, took his leave and never heard of his money from that day to this.—From "Recollections of a Long Life," by Lord Broughton (John Cam Hobhouse).

Shakespeare's House.

The house in which the master bard was born is located in Henley street, Stratford-on-Avon, England. Washington Irving said of this famous abode of genius: "It is a small, mean looking edifice of wood and plaster, a true nesting place of genius, which seems to delight in hatching its offspring in by- corners. The walls of its squalid chambers are covered with names and inscriptions in every language by pilgrims of all nations, ranks and conditions, from the prince to the peasant, and present a simple but striking instance of the spontaneous and universal homage of mankind to the great poet of nature."

Several years ago the house was purchased by subscription with a view to the careful preservation of it and of its contents for the inspection of future generations.

Tuning a Bell.

No matter how great may be the care taken in making the mold, a bell has to be tuned before it will ring a clear, true note. As a matter of fact, every bell sounds five notes, all of which must blend together harmoniously. If one is the least bit out of tune will be spoiled. The first of these notes is produced by the vibrations at the mouth of the bell, the second by the vibrations a little higher up, the third still higher up, and so on to the fifth, which is produced quite near the top. As the character of the sound which rings depends upon the thickness of the metal, it is possible, by taking thin shavings from various places in the inside of the bell, to alter the five notes until they are all in harmony.

CUSTOMS MEN GOT THEIR "BIT"

Testimony In the Sugar Frauds Hearing.

BENDERNAGLE THE PAYMASTER

In the Trial of the Six Indicted Former Employees of the Sugar Trust, a One-Time Clerk in the Company's Employ Testified That He Had Seen Bendernagle Pay Money to Men Wearing the Uniform of United States Customs Inspectors—It Is Also Brought Out How Pay Envelopes of Favored Ones Were Regularly Padded by Bendernagle.

New York, Dec. 1.—The jury for the trial of the six indicted former employees of the sugar trust was completed a few minutes after court opened yesterday.

The only sensation of the day came when Andrew J. Mellen, who was on the stand when adjournment came, was called. Mellen had been in the company's employ in Mr. Bendernagle's office from 1887 to 1907, but is now in business in Connecticut. His testimony directly involved United States customs inspectors, although not individually, and the defense sought to show that he was not in position to say that men whom he had seen in uniform were necessarily inspectors.

He testified that when he was in Mr. Bendernagle's office, although it was customary for the pay envelopes of the dock men to have written on them the sums they contained, this was not done in the cases of certain tally men and samplers. The amounts of the wages or daily payments of the dockmen, he said, were fixed by Bendernagle and were from time to time raised by him. Spitzer used to talk with Bendernagle, he said, as to the payments to be made to the men under Spitzer, and he said that six men whose envelopes were marked $12 weekly, used to receive more than that sum, more than the amount marked on their respective envelopes. These six men were Kehoe, Coyle, Boyle, Lennessey, Voelker and Halligan.

"Did you ever see Bendernagle pay any money to men wearing the uniform of United States customs inspectors?" Mr. Denison asked.

"Yes," said the witness. "Do you know what amount of money Mr. Bendernagle paid?" was asked the witness, "were they in silver?"

"No, bills," said the witness. "Where were the bills taken from?" "The cash drawer."

He said further that it was the rule that men who were late should be docked, but that this applied to the six men before mentioned only in so far that they were, on the books, permitted to make up the tardiness, to the extent of an hour, at the other end of the day.

ZELAYANS LOSE

Nicaraguan Revolutionists Win Another Brisk Battle.

Bluefields, Dec. 1 (by wireless to Colon).—At a point called Las Salinas, in the neighborhood of the Topaz mine above Rama, the revolutionary forces commanded by General Matuty defeated 1,000 Zelayan troops. The Zelayaists lost eight killed and many wounded. The losses of the revolutionary forces was twenty killed. General Chamorro, whose command is besieging Greytown, has arrived here. He reports that the situation at Greytown remains unchanged. The Zelaya force there has made no attempt to raise the siege. Recruits have arrived from many places, and their accession has materially strengthened the revolution. The impression prevails among the revolutionary authorities that the trouble cannot last much longer, although Zelaya claims differently.

Picked Up Out of the Air.

Mobile, Ala., Dec. 1.—That the two Americans, Leonard W. Groce of Texas and Leroy Cannon of Pennsylvania, have not been executed by order of Zelaya, but are imprisoned near Bluefields, is the intelligence brought here by Captain Holmes and passengers of the steamship Atenas. This information was picked up by wireless Nov. 27 as the Atenas was passing the Nicaraguan coast. The wireless operator of the vessel was not able to ascertain whence it came.

Further Atrocities Reported.

New Orleans, Dec. 1.—George Lacayo, a prominent planter of Leon, Nicaragua, and a former officer in the British army, has brought news to this city of three executions of a most barbarous nature in Granada by order of President Zelaya. One of the victims was Mr. Espinosa, a defenseless man of seventy years, father of Minister Rudolfo Espinosa, the Estrada representative at Washington, and of Minister General Emilio Espinosa, at Bluefields.

Isadore Newman, banker, street railroad man and probably the wealthiest man in New Orleans, is dead at the age of seventy-two years.

PRIMITIVE JUSTICE IN A HOOSIER COURT

Boy Taken to Sheriff and Whipped By Court's Order.

Nashville, Ind., Dec. 1.—In the circuit court here the old way of administering justice to law violators was used when Harvey Ayers, aged fourteen, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Ayers of Johnson township, was taken into the sheriff's office and whipped with a hickory switch. The boy was arraigned in court on a charge of trespass after he broke a window pane in a house owned by Lavina Hedrick of Johnson township. An indictment was returned by the grand jury and Ayers appeared before Judge William Deupree several times to plead guilty for his son, but each time the judge refused, saying he wished the boy to appear before him in person. The boy's mother attempted to plead guilty for her son, and again the judge refused. The boy then pleaded guilty and the chastisement followed.

CLAUDE SIMPSON, News Editor.

ROY HARROLD, City Editor.

Wednesday, December 1, 1909.

In another column will be found the accounts of progress in neighboring cities. There is food for thought in those accounts. It will do every Rushville man good to stop for a minute and think about this.

Already somebody can be heard saying, "Well, Rushville, tried, but failed. It's no use."

Nothing is farther from the truth. True, everything has not gone here just as it might be wished. But that is no reason the citizens should lie down or have lain down on the interests of the city. The Young Men's Commercial club is still out for blood and it is the prediction of the Republican that it will have blood in the way of new factories for the city before another year rolls around.

A business man asked this morning: "When is Hernly coming?" Things are not as quiet here as the surface might indicate. There is an under current and some day it will come to the surface and then we will wonder "why this spasmodic movement." It will not be spasmodic—it will be the kind that counts. And that "some day" is not so very far away either.

Rushville needs one great thing now and that is Harmony, spelled with a big H. In our opinion there are three things that should be done to accomplish this, and two of these three will probably grow out of the first. A popular twenty-five cent banquet would, we believe, be just the thing as soon as the Christmas business is out of the way. Arrange a good program, get a good supper, and have a general good time. No use having speeches about what Rushville ought to do. What is needed now is a meeting of every citizen of Rushville, a free thinking and popular meeting, and things discussed straight from the shoulder. In other words call spades spades and clubs clubs. No need of any bitterness or hard feeling. Never yet has that got anybody anything. But men would get together at a meeting of that kind. They could give their ideas and hear what other people have to say. Make it a big social gathering for men to discuss things of vital interest to be city.

Then the two things that probably would grow out of this meeting would be a more closely organized commercial club, and a good business men's association. There is no kick at the present commercial club—it has worked hard and its officers deserve unlimited praise for their efforts. They have the right kind of stuff in them and it's the kind of nerve that counts in anything worth while. But a closer organization is needed and nobody realizes that any more than the officers of the club.

That a good business men's association could accomplish much there is no doubt. Business men should work together. Because men are rivals in business is no reason why they should refuse to speak to each other. Of course, there is no such instance here, but we confidently believe that a good business men's association could correct several little difficulties which exist here at the present.

So the Republican favors a banquet after the holiday season is over, and it believes that it is supported in this movement by the substantial men of the city.

Hogs Is Hogs Just the Same as Pigs Is Pigs

Rural Route Carriers Hold Lengthy Discussion on Subject, "Why Is a Porker"

Hogs is Hogs just the same as Pigs is Pigs, but that's no reason why the rural route carriers should spend one whole evening arguing on the subject. But that is just what they did at the postoffice last night. Who said hogs? And the argument was on. They fairly wallowed in it and just kept right on, the last going the one just before one better. One carrier would tell a story and all would turn in wonder at such a marvelous thing. Then someone over in the corner would give him the merry ha! ha! and then tell one about ten points better which, of course, made his average better. George Aultman had the best average because he told the last story just as the party was broken up.

John Finley, who has a reputation for telling good, long stories, started the ball rolling. He was about the first one present except John Hiner, who was on hand to hear the story.

"Well, the old hogs keep soaring. They were only $8 yesterday and today they are $8.40. That's goin' some to raise forty cents in one day." This was only a side issue for a starter, but it was pretty close to the main subject—hogs.

"I don't believe that Hogs were $8.30 yesterday and how could they raise forty cents in one day and only be $8.40?" asked John Hiner.

"I meant this for a perfectly peaceable argument. I didn't expect anyone to be called a liar," retorted Finley.

"Speaking of pigs and hogs, etc., said Harvey Allen, postal clerk, who was standing near, "I remember once—and it was not long ago, either—when I paid $54.36 for a hog. Now what do you think of that?"

"I would hate to tell you what I think about it" put in John Finley again.

In the meantime several more of the carriers had gathered to put up their evening mail for this morning.

Luther Downey had just come in as Harvey Allen was reciting his experience and he had heard it all.

They all turned around when they heard him snickering.

"Well, what's the matter," asked Harvey?

"Oh, I was just thinking how much I could beat that story of yours."

"Let's hear it," chimed two or three of them.

"You talk about big hogs and paying big prices for them. Why, once not long ago my mother-in-law paid $75.56 for one hog. Now maybe you think that wasn't a monster."

"We don't think anything, we know it was. But we also think that it is a bigger lie than it was a hog," suggested George Aultman.

"Have your own way about it, but I know what I'm talking about."

John Hiner had been sitting quietly looking on, but he could not keep out of it because he had a story, but it was a bigger one than any which had been told.

"You talk about big hogs. I saw one along my route today that was as fat as a pig all ready for market, and I'd be willing to bet a dime it would weigh 1400 pounds. Say but he was a whopper."

George Aultman went him one better.

"Ha! Ha! Ha! Well, I guess I haven't got one on you. Why that thing you saw today was a midget to the one I saw. I was driving along the road today when what did I see over in the field but something that was supposed to be a hog, but looked more like an elephant. I just thought then that I would tell the boys about that tonight. With a view to getting at the correct weight I just estimated it right there. That hog was not very fat. It was really poor but such a hog I never saw. Just as it was it would weigh 1200 pounds. And if that thing was ever fattened it would weigh 1800 if it would weigh a pound."

Then there was an awful laugh. They gave up. There was no chance to beat one like that and they all adjourned until this evening when a new and not such a weighty topic will be up for consideration.

JUST A GIRL.

That great round world was made
For that girl;
Just that girl.
Why did Adam take the bite?
For a girl;
Just a girl.
Why was Troy swept out of sight?
For a girl;
Just a girl.
Oh would heaven still be bright,
And would any good man care
To achieve it if he might Never claim forever there
Just a girl,
Glorious girl?

Popcorn Macaroons For Christmas Time

Chop fine a cupful of freshly popped corn, add an equal quantity of chopped and blanched almonds, and pound to a paste in a mortar moistening with a few drops of rose and almond extract. Place in a mixing bowl the stiffly-beaten whites of three eggs and stir in gradually eight ounces of powdered sugar, beating the meringue steadily with a wooden spoon for five minutes. Then add the nut and popcorn paste, a spoonful at a time.

When thoroughly blended, drop pieces the size of a silver quarter on to a sheet of buttered paper, place in shallow baking-tins, and bake in a moderate oven for twenty minutes. Keep closely covered until ready to use, and serve in sherbet glasses around a tiny pyramid of sweetened and flavored whipped cream.

Factory News From Neighboring Cities

What Others Are Doing To Stimulate Their Industries and Business

AND STILL ANOTHER.

(New Castle Courier.)

When New Castle boosters go after a thing they generally get it. The articles of agreement whereby New Castle gets another new factory were signed up Tuesday morning, the company organized and is already doing business under the firm name of the National Spring company.

The plant will be located near the rolling mills, when fully organized and put into operation will employ at least 200 men and it represents an investment of about $50,000.

Plans are being drawn at the present time for the factory building and locating the various departments.

The matter has been hanging fire for some days and finally culminated this morning. The concern will build automobile springs exclusively. This particular kind of spring is claimed to be the most durable and indestructible ever devised.

The original company was formerly located at St. Johns, New Brunswick, where the plant is now. The company began casting about for a new location. The desire was to get into the heart of the automobile manufacturing center. New Castle was visited and the matter was put up to local men. They had heard of the National Spring company and knew it was a good thing and negotiations were opened.

Just as soon as the negotiations were closed, preparations were at once started for building. A few of the machines in the St. Johns plant will be shipped here, but the majority of the equipment will consist of new machines. The concern will require great quantities of steel from which its springs will be manufactured.

NEW ONE FOR COLUMBUS.

(Columbus Republican.)

The night gown factory is coming. That announcement was made Tuesday morning by Harry McNeeley, of the McNeeley & Cox Manufacturing company of Indianapolis. The details of the deal to bring the plant from Indianapolis to this city have not yet all been closed, but these matters will be out of the way in a lay or two and then the work of removing the concern to Columbus will be started.

While definite announcement of the location of the new factory is not yet made it is the general understanding that the old Polly Normal building, owned by the Rev. Z. T. Sweeney at Eleventh and Chestnut streets will be occupied.

Mr. McNeeley said Tuesday morning that he expected to have every bit of his machinery installed and the plant running by either December 15 or December 20. He has large orders for night gowns for delivery the first of January and it is absolutely necessary for his company to get started as soon as possible so the orders can be taken up.

The new company will bring fifty power machines to this city and will take on fifty girls as soon as they can learn to operate the machines. Some people had the impression that the new concern would bring fifty ordinary sewing machines to Columbus and would employ fifty girls to sit and treadle those machines all day long. However, this is not the case. All of the machinery will be driven by electric power. There are special machines for cutting, special machines that sew five seams at once, special machines that put in sleeves and sew them up automatically, special machines that cut buttonholes, etc.

NEW YEAR'S BABY.

(Richmond Palladium.)

Through the efforts of the South Side Improvement association a new factory has been added to the large number already here, which promises in the near future to be as large and productive as any of the older and longer established plants. This new concern is the National Automatic Tool Works, a building for which is being constructed in the Beallview addition, which will some day be a part of the city of Richmond.

The new acquisition will probably be a New Year's baby, as it is not anticipated the factory will be able to start operations before that time. It was hoped to open the building with a big public celebration on December 7, but unavoidable delays have resulted, which make the former date the more probable time for the opening.

Upon a visit to the site of the new factory building of the National Automatic Tool Works it was found that work is now progressing very satisfactorily, with a day and night shift, totaling approximately 70 men, working week day and Sunday alike, in order that the building may be completed at the earliest possible date.

This building will cost in the neighborhood of $32,000, and after the installation of the heating plant, the cost will be increased to $35,000. The cost of moving the installation of the machinery and other incidentals will amount to at least $10,000 more, it is believed.

The product manufactured includes automatic drilling, reaming and tapping machinery. Its machines are reputed to be the best and latest models on the market. They are improved in every feature. The product of the local factory will, within a short time, be the output of probably 150 men's labors. Mr. Buckhoff stated that the demand for the product was general the world over, and in Germany, Russia and Italy, particularly. The company expects in the near future to establish agencies in these three countries, in order to protect the patent rights the company possesses.

EVEN ADMIT IT

(Connersville Examiner.)

A number of officials of the C. H. & D. were expected in Connersville today to "look over" the town, but a telegram this morning announced that the gentlemen would not be able to be here today and that their visit would have to be postponed until next week.

The railroad officials will be given proper attention when they finally get here, and they will be shown over the best town on earth, and by far the best on the C. H. & D. lines—a town that makes many thousands of dollars for the railroads every year, because of its great manufacturing establishments.

A visit of the gentlemen will be a very satisfactory matter to local manufacturers, who will be glad of the occasion to show them the magnitude of the local concerns.

Mr. Gould, the new superintendent of this division of the line, will be a member of the party.

Interesting Side of Life

A TRUE PHILLISTINE.

John Geraghty, who is at present teaching school in Center township, has had many and varied experiences. He was a teacher in the Philippines for several years and after his time expired, he toured the old country. He had been all down through Europe and one cold night arrived in London. After getting a warm comfortable room in a hotel he sat down to figure out how he would spend the evening. He bought a copy of the evening paper to look over the bills at the theaters that evening. He noticed that he had an opportunity to see and hear several artists, including Caruso and Bonci, the world's greatest tenor. Here was a chance to hear something that he could not hear in Rushville. He thought for a moment. But instead of enjoying an evening for art's sake, like the true Phillistine, sat down and read Mark Twain's "Innocence Abroad."

TRIES TO GET LAND FROM HIS DAUGHTER

Case of Ruby vs. Ewing For Possession Was Compromised in the Circuit Court Today.

SAME PARTIES IN OTHER CASE

The case of Ruby vs. Ewing for possession was compromised in the circuit court today after the suit had been in the court several terms. The suit was first brought in a justice of the peace court at Carthage, where a decision was rendered in favor of the defendant. The plaintiff appealed the case to the circuit court. A case in which the same parties are implicated to set aside a deed is now awaiting its turn in the appellate court where it was appealed from the local circuit court by the plaintiff. Jacob Ruby, who is the plaintiff in both cases, is the father of Mrs. Mrs. Ewing, who is the defendant. He deeded her forty acres of land several years ago and is now trying to get possession of the property and set aside the deed. Watson, Titts worth & Green are the attorneys for the defendant and Morris, Skelton & Newby of Knightstown are representing the plaintiff.

Good Morning

Say It To Your Friends
When You Meet Them

A cheery "Good morning" often sends a ray of sunshine streaming through the innermost recesses of a household, resting there all the live-long day and again follows hastening footsteps into the mart of business, lighting up and brightening "the way of the world" as it goes. A hearty "Good night" often soothes many a troubled mind to rest, and heals the wounds which have either come anew to a struggling soul, or been re-opened by the harsh words or deeds that are spoken or done in season or out of season, as the daily battle of our life progresses.

"Good morning," with a heartfelt wish for blessings in the tone of its utterance, cheers the heart of faint and fearful ones, and softens many a hard spot that has place by inheritance or cultivation, in the breasts of humanity. The lovelight that beams from the eye when one is greeted by such words as "Good night" lights many a weary spirit to a chamber of rest and peace and to a land of pleasant dreams.

The home where "Good morning" and "Good night" are cheerfully said by one to another, are the homes of the world where good thoughts are generated, where good deeds, have place, and from whence go out good lives.

Then don't forget to say "Good morning," say it to parents, to children, brothers, sisters, schoolmasters, teachers, friends and to all you meet, and say it cheerfully and with a smile. It will do you good and do your friends good. It will cheer the discouraged, rest the tired ones, and somehow make the wheel of life move more smoothly. A "Good morning" heartily spoken makes hope fresher and brighter and seems really to make the morning good, and to be a prophesy of a good day to come after it.

Hicks Guesses Again

According to Rev. Irl Hicks, the famous weather prophet, December will be quite stormy. He says that a reactionary storm period is central on the 4th, 5th and 6th. A cold wave of much intensity will prevail over western to central sections as we pass from November to December.

A regular storm period extends from the 9th to the 14th, is central on the 11th. This period embraces new moon at an eclipse node on the 12th. About the 8th to 15th of December is also a time of maximum magnetic perturbation, due to certain relations of earth and sun—the earth's south magnetic pole being most inclined to the sun's equator. Very low barometer and marked rise in temperature will begin in western sections about the 10th, and during the 11th to 14th violent winter storms will sweep eastwardly across the country.

Blizzards from the northwest, followed by a cold wave and high barometer that will reach far into the south about the 12th to the 15th. A seismic period is central on the 12th, covering the 9th to the 14th.

A reactionary storm period is central on the 16th, 17th and 18th and a regular storm period, central on the 22d covers the 20th to 25th. The mercury period begins at this time and will increase the intensity and prolong the existence of storm conditions.

Another reactionary storm period is central on the 27th, 28th and 29th. Another seismic period extends from the 23d to the 28th.

CHAPTER VI.

In the East Corridor.

When the detective left he enjoined absolute secrecy on everybody in the household. The Greenwood club promised the same thing, and as there are no Sunday afternoon papers, the murder was not publicly known until Monday. The coroner himself notified the Armstrong family lawyer, and early in the afternoon he came out. I had not seen Mr. Jamieson since morning, but I knew he had been interrogating the servants. Gertrude was locked in her room with a headache, and I had luncheon alone.

Mr. Harton, the lawyer, was a little, thin man, and he looked as if he did not relish his business that day.

"This is very unfortunate, Miss Innes," he said, after we had shaken hands. "Most unfortunate—and mysterious. With the father and mother in the west, I find everything devolves on me; and, as you can understand, it is an unpleasant duty."

"No doubt," I said absently. "Mr. Harton, I am going to ask you some questions, and I hope you will answer them. I feel that I am entitled to some knowledge, because I and my family are just now in a most ambiguous position."

"I don't know whether he understood me or not; he took off his glasses and wiped them."

"I shall be very happy," he said with old-fashioned courtesy.

"Thank you. Mr. Harton, did Mr. Arnold Armstrong know that Sunny-side had been rented?"

"I think—yes, he did. In fact, I myself told him about it."

"And he knew who the tenants were?"

"Yes."

"He had not been living with the family for some years, I believe?"

"No. Unfortunately, there had been trouble between Arnold and his father. For two years he had lived in town."

"Then it would be unlikely that he came here last night to get possession of anything belonging to him?"

"I should think it hardly possible," he admitted. "To be perfectly frank, Miss Innes, I can not think of any reason whatever for his coming here as he did. He had been staying at the club house across the valley for the last week, Jarvis tells me, but that only explains how he came here, not why. It is a most unfortunate family."

He shook his head despondently, and I felt that this dried-up little man was the repository of much that he had not told me. I gave up trying to elicit any information from him, and we went together to view the body before it was taken to the city. It had been lifted on to the billiard-table and a sheet thrown over it; otherwise nothing had been touched. A soft hat lay beside it, and the collar of the dinner-coat was still turned up. The handsome, dissipated face of Arnold Armstrong, purged of its ugly lines, was now only pathetic. As we went in Mrs. Watson appeared at the card-room door.

"Come in, Mrs. Watson," the lawyer said. But she shook her head and withdrew; she was the only one in the house who seemed to regret the dead man, and even she seemed rather shocked that she should.

Before Mr. Harton left, he told me something of the Armstrong family. Paul Armstrong, the father, had been married twice. Arnold was a son by the first marriage. The second Mrs. Armstrong had been a widow, with a child, a little girl. This child, now perhaps 20, was Louise Armstrong, having taken her stepfather's name, and was at present in California with the family.

"They will probably return at once," he concluded, "and part of my errand here to-day is to see if you will relinquish your lease here in their favor."

"We would better wait and see if they wish to come," I said. "It seems unlikely, and my town house is being remodeled." At that he let the matter drop, but it came up unpleasantly enough, later.

At six o'clock the body was taken away, and at seven-thirty, after an early dinner, Mr. Harton went. Gertrude had not come down, and there was no news of Halsey. Mr. Jamieson had taken a lodging in the village, and I had not seen him since mid-afternoon. It was about nine o'clock, I think, when the bell rang and he was ushered into the living room.

"Sit down," I said grimly. "Have you found a clew that will incriminate me, Mr. Jamieson?"

He had the grace to look uncomfortable. "No," he said. "If you had killed Mr. Armstrong, you would have left no clews. You would have had too much intelligence."

After that we got along better. He was fishing in his pocket, and after a minute he brought out two scraps of paper. "I have been to the club-house," he said, "and among Mr. Armstrong's effects, I found these. One is curious; the other is puzzling."

The first was a sheet of club note paper on which was written, over and over, the name "Halsey B. Innes." It was Halsey's flowing signature to a dot, but it lacked Halsey's ease. The ones toward the bottom of the sheet were much better than the top ones. Mr. Jamieson smiled at my face.

"His old tricks," he said. "That one is merely curious; this one, as I said before, is puzzling."

The second scrap, folded and re-folded into a compass so tiny that the writing had been partly obliterated, was part of a letter—the lower half of a sheet, not typed, but written in a cramped hand.

—by altering the plans for rooms, may be possible. The best way, in my opinion would be to—the plan for—in one of the—rooms—chimney.

That was all.

"Well?" I said, looking up. "There is nothing in that, is there? A man ought to be able to change the plan of his house without becoming an object of suspicion."

"There is little in the paper itself," he admitted; "but why should Arnold Armstrong carry that around, unless it meant something? He never built a house, you may be sure of that. If it is this house, it may mean anything from a secret room—"

"To an extra bathroom," I said scornfully. "Haven't you a thumb print, too?"

"I have," he said with a smile, "and the print of a foot in a tulip bed, and a number of other things. The odd part is, Miss Innes, that the thumb-mark is probably yours and the footprint certainly."

His audacity was the only thing that saved me; his amused smile put me on my mettle, and I ripped out a perfectly good scallop before I answered.

"Why did I step into the tulip bed?" I asked with interest.

"You picked up something," he said good-humoredly, "which you are going to tell me about later."

"Am I, indeed?" I was politely curious. "With this remarkable insight of yours, I wish you would tell me where I shall find my four-thousand-dollar mortgage."

"I was just coming to that," he said. "You will find it about 30 miles away, at Andrews Station, in a blacksmith shop, where it is being repaired."

I laid down my knitting then and looked at him.

"And Halsey?" I managed to say. "We are going to exchange information," he said. "I am going to tell you that, when you tell me what you picked up in the tulip bed."

We looked steadily at each other; it was not an unfriendly stare; we were only measuring weapons. Then he smiled a little and got up.

"With your permission," he said, "I am going to examine the card room and the staircase again. You might think over my offer in the meantime."

He went on through the drawing room, and I listened to his footsteps growing gradually fainter. I dropped my pretence at knitting and, leaning back, I thought over the last 48 hours. Here was I, Rachel Innes, spinster, a granddaughter of old John Innes of revolutionary days, a D. A. R., a Colonial Dame, mixed up with a vulgar and revolting crime, and even attempting to hoodwink the law! Certainly I had left the straight and narrow way.

I was roused by hearing Mr. Jamieson coming rapidly back through the

Not A "Cure-All"

Separate Remedies, Each Devised for the Treatment of a Particular Ailment.

There is no "cure-all" among the Rexall Remedies. There are different and separate medicines, each one devised for a certain human ailment or a class of ailments closely allied. For instance, Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets are recommended for the positive relief of stomach irritation, indigestion, flatulency and dyspepsia. They are rich in Bismuth-Subnitrate, Pepsin and Carminatives. They are prepared by special processes which perfect and enhance the great remedial value of these well-known medicinal agents. This remedy sells for 25 cents, 50 cents, and $1.00 per package. Every one suffering from stomach disorder should try Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets, inasmuch as they cost nothing if they do not satisfy.

Remember Lytle's Drug Store is the only store in Rushville, where these remedies may be obtained, and every one in need of medicine is urged to investigate and take advantage of the frank and generous manner in which they are sold.

"Time's Flight Turned Backward" SAGE AND SULPHUR Made Her look Twenty Years Younger

READ MRS. HERRICK'S SWORN STATEMENT

STATE OF NEW YORK } ss. Rochester, N. Y.

Nancy A. Herrick, being duly sworn, deposes and says: When I was a school girl I had a head of heavy, long, dark brown hair, that was so plentiful, rich and glossy, that it was the envy of many of my young schoolmates, and attracted the attention and remarks of strangers. After I was married and as I grew older, my hair commenced to come out just a little at first, but gradually as time passed it came out more and more, and began to turn gray. I was induced by many good reports heard of Sage and Sulphur, to try a bottle. My hair was quite gray and thin on top when I commenced using Sage and Sulphur, and you may imagine my satisfaction when I found that it was fast coming back to its natural condition, becoming thicker, darker, smoother and glossier than it had been for a long time. I continued the use of Sage and Sulphur and my hair is now in a splendid condition, as heavy and as dark and smooth as when I was a girl of sixteen. From my experience I believe it is one's own fault if they lose their hair, or let it get gray or harsh. It is now four years since I commenced using Sage and Sulphur, and still use it, and my hair still keeps thick, dark, smooth and glossy.

Sworn to before me this 14th day of July, 1909.

drawing room. He stopped at the door.

"Miss Innes," he said quickly, "will you come with me and light the east corridor? I have fastened somebody in the small room at the head of the card room stairs."

I jumped up at once. "You mean—the murderer?" I gasped.

"Possibly," he said quietly, as we hurried together up the stairs. "Some one was lurking on the staircase when I went back. I spoke; instead of an answer, whoever it was turned and ran up. I followed—it was dark—but as I turned the corner at the top a figure darted through this door and closed it. The bolt was on my side, and I pushed it forward. It is a closet, I think. We were in the upper hall now. "If you will show me the electric switch, Miss Innes, you would better wait in your own room."

Bolted Down Stairs, Three at a Time.

Trembling as I was, I was determined to see that door opened. I hardly knew what I feared, but so many terrible and inexplicable things had happened that suspense was worse than certainty.

"I am perfectly cool," I said, "and I am going to remain here."

The lights flashed up along that end of the corridor, throwing the doors into relief. At the intersection of the small hallway with the larger, the circular staircase wound its way up, as if it had been an afterthought of the architect. And just around the corner, in the small corridor, was the door Mr. Jamieson had indicated. I was still unfamiliar with the house, and I did not remember the door. My heart was thumping wildly in my ears, but I nodded to him to go ahead. I was perhaps eight or ten feet away—and then he threw the bolt back.

"Come out," he said quietly. There was no response. "Come—out," he repeated. Then—I think he had a revolver, but I am not sure—he stepped aside and threw the door open.

From where I stood I could not see beyond the door, but I saw Mr. Jamieson's face change and heard him mutter something, then he bolted down the stairs, three at a time. When my knees had stopped shaking, I moved forward, slowly, nervously, until I had a partial view of what was beyond the door. It seemed at first to be a closet, empty. Then I went close and examined it, to stop with a shudder. Where the floor should have been was black void and darkness, from which came the indescribable damp smell of the cellars.

Mr. Jamieson had locked somebody in the clothes chute. As I leaned over I fancied I heard a groan—or was it the wind?

FREE Words and Music of the Prettiest Song in "NEARLY A HERO"

"I DON'T WANT TO MARRY YOU," words and music by Edward B. Claypoole, sung by Miss Grace LaRue with Sam Bernard in "NEARLY A HERO," will be published in our columns this week. This is the daintiest song in "NEARLY A HERO" and is sung by the daintiest of actresses, Grace LaRue.

Mr. Claypoole never composed a better, although his "MY SAHARA BELLE" from the same production runs it a close second.

Publishing and performing rights have been secured from Edward Laska, General Manager of The Trebush Publishing Co., Publishers of all Shubert Musical attractions. There is no prettier or catchier music to be had than

"MY SAHARA BELLE" and

His general condition remains good and his spirits excellent. A course of electrical and massage treatment has been begun and good results are expected. Since the operation on Nov. 14 there has been slight improvement in the paralysis and the wound of the operation has entirely healed.

NORTHWESTERN ROAD SWITCHMEN GO OUT

Traffic On Great Railway Line Effectually Tied Up.

St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 1.—The representatives of the switchmen's union and the Northwestern railroad, after a conference lasting practically all day, last evening agreed to disagree, and the result was that at 6 o'clock last night every union switchman employed in every railroad yard between the Twin Cities and the Pacific coast went on a strike. Charles H. Knapp of the interstate commerce commission and Commissioner of Labor Charles P. Neill, who attended the conference, announced after the meeting adjourned that they would remain here for a day or so. Both have abandoned any hope of averting what promises to be a strike that will seriously cripple traffic in the northwest. Messrs. Knapp and Neill went to the yards of the Minnesota Transfer, where most trouble is expected to result from the strike. It is here that freight of the northwest is switched and here the consequences of the strike will be most seriously felt. At the union depot it is expected that most of the passenger trains will be able to move. But the strike means that so far as freight is concerned not a wheel can turn, either at the Minnesota transfer or at the union depot in St. Paul or at the Minneapolis stations until the railroads can get men to take the places of the strikers.

A general order to strike was issued by President Frank T. Hawley of the International Switchmen's Union, who has been in active charge of the interests of his union during the prolonged conferences. The telegraphic order sent out the night before to strike at 6 o'clock last evening unless otherwise ordered, simply stood, and the men in all of the yards between St. Paul and Puget sound went out on strike at the hour of 6 o'clock.

HAUTEVILLE HOUSE.

Victor Hugo's Home While He Was In Exile at Guernsey.

Hauteville House, in St. Peter Port, Guernsey, Victor Hugo's home while in exile, remains exactly as he left it. It is held by his descendants. Victor Hugo's character is written on the walls and ceilings of every room in the house. Each is distinctive and filled with priceless pictures, tapestries and furniture.

The dining room is "papered" with Dutch delft ware, and in a recess is a saltcellar made by a pupil of Michelangelo valued at £600. The study is a bare and inconvenient room. It commands magnificent views of Sark, Herm, Jethou, Castle Cornet and the harbor and leads into a small room used by the novelist as a rest and sleeping chamber, lined with volumes bearing the marks of his own use.

Not the least interesting of the features are, the correspondent points out, the mottoes and aphorisms written up in unexpected places. "Life Is an Exile" is inscribed on the door of the dining room; on the bed prepared for Garibaldi (which was never occupied) one may read, "Nox, Mors, Lux," in the oak gallery are three chairs inscribed "Pater," "Mater," "Filius," and underneath "Filius" is written "Amatus Amat."

In the red drawing room and other splendid apartments are tables that belonged to Charles II., a bedstead of Francis I. and a fire screen worked by Mme. Pompadour, a white and gold dessert service once the property of Louis Philippe.—Sunday School Chronicle.

NORWAY WATCH BOYS.

They Sit In Tall Sentry Boxes on the Lookout For Fish.

It is common enough to see a boy watching cattle to keep them from straying, and in days not so very long gone by it was no unusual thing for a boy to be set to keep the birds off the crops. But a watch boy whose duty it is to keep a lookout for a school of fish and who sits in a sentry box set upon stilts is not such an everyday sight.

This particular kind of watch boy is Norwegian, the scene of his labors being the shores of some fiord of his native land.

His little sentry box is made of wood and perched high upon posts. Here the lad sits, gazing out across the arm of the sea, using his keen eyes for the benefit of the farmers who are depending upon him to give the alarm when a school of fish shall appear. They work contentedly enough in their fields, secure in the belief that their watch boy will let them know when it is time to reap a harvest from the sea instead of from the land.

When the signal is given they leave their work, throw their big nets over their shoulders and hurry off to their boats.

Sentry boxes similar to those employed in Norway were in use among the fishermen on the shores of the Mediterranean, and it is supposed that the vikings brought back with them from some of their piratical raids the idea that has been put in practice ever since.—Youth's Companion.

THEY ENTER PLEAS OF GUILTY

Admitting Their Guilt, Charged With Various Violations of the Banking Laws, a Quintet of Indiana Bankers Hear the Sentence of Judge Anderson Passed in Federal Court at Indianapolis—Several Others Enter Pleas of Not Guilty and the Time For Their Hearings Will Be Set Later.

Six men pleaded guilty in federal court to various charges of violation of the banking laws. They were Max Emmerich, who, according to the indictment, got away with $40,000 from the Capital National bank, this city; Harry C. Prinzier of this city, who was mixed up with Emmerich in the crime; Norman Hamilton of this city, who took $500 in gold from the Indiana National bank; E. N. Detzer, who took about $7,000 from the First National bank, Fort Wayne; J. H. Phillips, who embezzled several thousand dollars from the Terre Haute National bank, and Frank H. Nicolai, who embezzled a few thousand dollars from the City National bank at Auburn.

Gall of this city, charged with complicity with Emmerich in the embezzlement from the Capital National bank, and Oscar F. Cochrane, who was arrested recently in New York on a charge of embezzling money from the American National bank, this city, two years ago, pleaded not guilty, and the time for their hearings will be set later.

Walter E. Scholze, who was indicted on the charge of counterfeiting and having in his possession and passing counterfeit silver dollars, was fined $100 and was sentenced to five years at hard labor at the Leavenworth federal prison, on a plea of guilty. Joshua S. Caton of Goshen, and his mother, Mattie M. Caton, were fined for having sent improper matter through the mails. The mother was fined $100 and costs and the son $50 and costs.

PURCELL BURIED TODAY

Funeral of Former Labor Commissioner Held at Linton.

Linton, Ind., Dec. 1.—The body of G. W. Purcell, former state labor commissioner, who was shot by Taylor Suttles on the highway at Atlas, a mining camp near here, was brought here to the home of his sister, Mrs. Joe Osha. The funeral was held this afternoon.

Suttles was rearrested and a preliminary trial held in which he was admitted to $5,000 bail, as the sentiment generally was in his favor. Six witnesses at the examination all testified that Suttles, who is old, crippled and a small man, and never had any trouble with anyone before, was pursued by Purcell, who was large physically, of an overbearing disposition, and drinking just enough to be abusive, and that Suttles acted in self-defense.

New Evidence in Highshew Case.

South Bend, Ind., Dec. 1.—It is believed that the new evidence presented to the grand jury investigating the murder of Enoch Highshew will result in the indictment of a woman instead of a man for the crime. All efforts to learn the identity of the suspects have failed, although it is intimated that she has been served with a subpoena and is constantly under surveillance.

Will Give No Reason For It.

Danville, Ill., Dec. 1.—W. C. Hayes, a theatrical man of Chicago, is near death at St. Elizabeth's hospital, as the result of injuries received when he jumped from a Chicago & Eastern Illinois train while it was running at a rate of sixty miles an hour. Hayes will give no reason for his act.

Another County Goes Dry.

Williamsport, Ind., Dec. 1.—By a majority of 925 the voters of Warren county voiced their approbation of the "dry" regime which has been in effect for the last year. The result, being a foregone conclusion, aroused little enthusiasm.

Gave Life to Save Barn.

Sterling, Ill., Dec. 1.—Mabel E. Sears, in attempting to save her father's barn from burning down, carried an exploding and burning lantern from the building and received burns so serious that she died two hours afterward.

Caught at the Crossing.

Kewanee, Ill., Dec. 1.—Asleep in a buggy while returning from a visit in the country, Edward O'Brien was killed and James Dwyer injured by a train on a crossing near Tiskilwa.

The Want Advertisements Are "Humanizing"

When more people come to use and answer Want and For Sale advertisements, more people will know each other—

MORE PEOPLE WITH MUTUAL INTEREST WILL MEET—

more people will find channels and opportunities for reciprocal service. Truly, the Daily Republican Want Ads are "humanizing" people—shaming away the scorn of small things; the scorn of "bar-gaining," of exchanging useful but not used things for useful and valuable ones.

AMUSEMENTS

The Palace theater will have a good war drama tonight entitled "Up San Juan Hill." This film is one of the stirring kind which makes you sit on the edge of the seat from the time the reel starts until old glory is flashed on the screen. The illustrate song will be "When Our Firemen Face Their Foe."

The Vaudet will show three good films tonight. The first two are "A Riding School" and "A Railroad Record," and are very interesting and entertaining. The third, "The Poor Pig" is a good comic. Miss Venus Lowden will sing a new song. The baby show is arousing much interest and promises to be exciting. The vote today stands: 1, Frank H. Green, 45; 2, Edwin Brecheisen, 16; 3, Ward Hubbard, 40; 4, Mary Elizabeth Beale, 9; 5, William E. Wallace, 16; 6, Leon Geraghty, 7; 7, Mildred Louise Coehran, just entered today and no votes have been cast for her yet.

The Star-Grand has a strong bill to offer tonight in a beautiful motion picture pastoral, which is a Biograph entitled "The Open Gate." The two dominant features of the characters of a true woman are love and duty, and no two elements are more belligerent than these, for love is often beset by duty, in which struggle duty in the honest, invariably prevails. Such an occasion forms the theme of this Biograph subject. In addition to the regular program "The Galloway Twins" have been secured by Manager Carr for the remainder of the week, for which there will be no extra charge. The admission will remain the same—five cents to all. Earl Robertson will sing "My Dream of the U. S. A."
